KINGA KONDOR-HINE

LMHC, NCC, RYT 200

Kinga found her passion for yoga some 30 years ago and she completed Essential Teacher Training with François Raoult in 2013. She has studied with and is influenced by the work of senior Open Sky Teachers along with the work of: Judith Hanson Lasater—Relax and Renew, Lizzie Lasater-Deep Rest, Laura Allard-Antelmi—Anatomy, Mary Richards-Anatomy, Amy Weintraub and Rose Cess—Life Force Yoga. Kinga combines the language of therapy with principals of yoga: breath work, mindfulness, guided meditation, and restorative poses as a means for healing in counseling sessions as well as on the yoga mat. The Art of Resting Restorative yoga was created by the Iyengar family in the 80's...

Restorative yoga is to rest deeply; it is a state in which there is no movement, no effort, and the brain is quiet. We will use props to move the spine through its range of motion, invert to move the fluids of the body to enhance heart function, stimulate and sooth organs, and through breath work, balance Prana and Apana energy. Join me, to find middle ground between over-stimulation and depletion.

Reset, renew, relax, restore, regenerate, retreat, reflect and let go!
